In my role as Non-Executive Chair at Hill Dickinson, I continue to support the strategic direction and governance of the firm while maintaining a client-facing role as a senior corporate solicitor. I’ve spent more than three decades advising investors, listed companies, and family businesses on mergers, acquisitions and cross-border transactions.

Much of my work has focused on sectors like transport, manufacturing, and food. I’ve also held non-executive roles across public and private organisations. >

Tony Goldsmith
Head of Marine Trade and Energy

As Business Group Leader of our Marine, Trade and Energy Group, I support our lawyers to provide a top quality service to clients across our global offices.

My early career was spent at sea as a Master Mariner, and I combine this first-hand practical experience and seafaring knowledge with 30-plus years’ of providing practical solutions to clients as their lawyer at times of crisis; experience that I bring to my daily work supporting and helping our lawyers delivering a pragmatic and results focused service. >

Andrew Craggs

As Head of Hill Dickinson’s Health Business Group, I lead a national team of legal specialists working across the NHS and independent healthcare sectors. We provide strategic advice and support to healthcare clients across the country and internationally.
